

IMPORTANT SAFETY RECALL UPDATE

March 12, 2024

Scott,

Last month, we shared with you our decision to issue a voluntary recall on your Polaris Snowmobile with VIN SN [REDACTED] to address electrostatic discharge, also known as ESD, in the fuel tanks. To keep you riding safely while we engineer a permanent repair, we instructed riders to use E10 (10% ethanol) fuel that was 91 or higher octane level. However, we recognized not everyone has convenient access to this fuel type and have continued to test additional options that will allow customers to continue riding their impacted sleds safely while we work on a permanent engineered fix.

After further testing and validation, we are updating the fuel type to E10 (10% ethanol) fuel with an 87 or higher octane for some affected snowmobiles:

- 600 (except INDY Cross Country) / 800 / 650 Patriot / 850 Patriot Models: E10 fuel (10% ethanol) 87+ octane

Important Note: Patriot 9R, Patriot Boost, and 600 INDY Cross Country still require 91+ octane with 10% ethanol.

Our records indicate that this updated fuel applies to your snowmobile with VIN SN [REDACTED]. Fuel that is 87 octane or higher with E10 (10% ethanol) is found at many gas stations across the U.S. and Canada and is commonly seen listed on gas station pumps as 87, 89, 91 or 93 octane. Do not use an 88 octane with 15% ethanol.

Click the button below to read, understand and follow the enclosed Owner's Manual Addendum reflecting the temporary fuel type guidance.

Similar to our previous guidance, you also need to change the fuel type designation on the gauge of your snowmobile to the "Non-premium/Ethanol" designation. The procedure for changing the fuel type designation varies based on the type of gauge your vehicle is equipped with. Refer to your Owner's Manual for further information.

You can visit our Snowmobile Customer Safety web page for more information on this recall, including a comprehensive Frequently Asked Questions section. Once a permanent repair is available, Polaris will notify dealers and contact you again by mail and email.

If you have additional questions, Polaris Owners Connections Department at 1-800-POLARIS (765-2747) to speak with a representative.

Thank you for being a Polaris owner.

Sincerely,

- Polaris Snowmobiles
